BIOGRAPHY:

Daniel's story is different from your typical musician tale.

He wasn't born in a musical family with an easy access to musical education. Not even in a culture that supports artistic profession. But it's not just that. Daniel didn't drop out of school because he wasn't a "science or math guy". In fact he was! He was always the top of every class, and he went on to become a researcher and got a Master of Science in clinical Immunology.

And yet, he is a musician who writes, produces, performs, records, mix and masters and releases his own music. Providing all the graphic arts for every song (pictures, lyrics video). All of which he learned on his own. Not a single teacher. and even though with growing up in a non-English speaking country, he went on to learn and sing in English (again, with no formal education on the subject). And THAT is the key.

MINDSET:

Daniel consider himself as "The Epitome of a Self-made Man". It did start at the age of 12 when he couldn't find anyone to help him become a musician, and continued as he decided to take on western genres that weren't popular in his country, but in ended up being a mindset. A belief that "if there is something to be done, it's best done by yourself". And now, after a period of dealing with and winning a battle against depression, He doesn't believe there is anything that could stop him.

MUSICAL STYLE:

Daniel Bohén's music, is his character. Adaptable, open to new ideas, Striving for perfection and rebellious against moral and stylistic rigidity. And he is not afraid to say what he feels, regardless of the emotion.

Though he would love to spend later years of his life composing musical pieces, at the moment he is mostly interested in connecting with more people through his music and finding the biggest audience he can. And for that purpose, for now Pop music seems to fit the best. And in that form, any genre that could express the given emotion of a song, will be chosen. From making Hip Hop and different genres of Electronic music (House, Dubstep, Trap) all the way to switching to Pop and R&B, he has every tools in his arsenal of music creation.
